Oh, What a Cough! Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that most terrible disease "Consumption." Ask your physician if you can afford the risk of saving to cure, to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It cures cough, croup, and whooping cough, at once. Mothers do not be without it. Harry Mordant, the escaped convict from the Oregon State Penitentiary, who was arrested in San Francisco some days ago and taken to Oregon on the steamer Columbia by Detective Day of Portland, disappeared in a sudden and remarkable manner while en route to the latter city. Shortly before reaching Astoria, Mordant made an excuse to go to his room to get a coat, and having at the time 16-pound shackles on his leg, the detective allowed him to do so. When the officer followed Mordant to his room, he found him gone. The vessel was thoroughly searched, but in vain. One of the deck hands says he saw Mordant slip over the stern of the steamer and reach the water by a rope and disappear.

HOPE FAST FAILING.

News from Long Branch is of the most alarming character. President Garfield had a severe chill last night, and another this morning. It seems impossible for him to again rally. How bravely he has battled with death for seventy-nine days, history will tell. He has borne suffering with remarkable courage, and if at last he has been summoned, he must go. The eyes of fifty million people are filled with tears when it is said that our beloved, courageous and noble President must die. No, the brave and true never die. It is not the time to discuss the Nation's future, for that is equally assured, in the event of Garfield life or death.

At Long Branch, before he was shot, the President happened to say: "Now, is it not strange, and is it not a striking commentary on the protection and security afforded by free institutions, that the President of the United States can go about in this way, practically unattended and without a body-guard, and without the paraphernalia that encompasses other rulers? I am as secure traveling this way as any citizen of the country."

HAIL AND FAREWELL!

The end has come, and a Nation puts on the garb of mourning to-day. We mourn for that which is free, liberal and progressive—for American citizenship. We bow with reverence and gratitude before the tomb of America's foremost citizen. We are silent at the death-bed of JAMES ABRAM GARFIELD, the man who was of the people, for the people, and by the people.

It now avails nothing if we say that the eyes now dim in death, looked along the National highway to future republican greatness. It matters little if we can say that the great mind which has ceased its action, had for its aim the uplifting and enlargement of the sacred privileges which belong to every American citizen alike. We can add nothing, if we say that the heart, which has now stopped its beating, enshrined a tender love for the starry flag, and every right which it signifies in the free air of heaven.

"This is the end of life."

He has laid the burden down and passed beyond the barrier which separates us from the unseen beyond. With his fame to the historian and his memory with his fellow citizens, we bid him hail and farewell.

He who carried a sword to preserve the Union, and has couched in rest an earnest purpose to perpetrate the unity has deserved well of Americans. Hail and farewell!

TO-MORROW.

The grief of to-day is only valuable in preparing us for to-morrow. Yesterday we were watching by the side of a sufferer for whom every honest man sympathized. To-day we are called upon to mourn for the head of the nation, James Abram Garfield. To-morrow we shall be called upon to uphold and strengthen the Government under a new head. We hope that every American citizen will give wholesome aid and countenance to the new Executive. CHESTER A. ARTHUR is now President of the United States. Every good citizen should help him to be an efficient head of our common country.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD DIED AT 6:30 LAST NIGHT!

With Faithful Wife and Friends and Visions of Old Mentor Closing His Eyes.

AFTER A DAY OF LIFE AND A LONG NIGHT OF SUFFERING AN AMERICAN CITIZEN GOES TO REST!

SCENES FROM THE PRINCIPAL CITIES OF THE EAST ON RECEIPT OF THE NEWS.

ELBERON, Sept. 19—11.15 P. M. The Cabinet has just arrived and gone in a body to Franklyn Cottage. All are here except Blaine and Lincoln. Attorney-General MacVeagh telegraphed them of the President's death. Great excitement prevails here, and further particulars cannot be obtained.

The Guard around Franklyn Cottage has been doubled, and no one is allowed to approach it. The Government has taken possession of the only telegraph wire which is connected at Elberon. It will be almost impossible to get further details to-night, as we are cut off from connection with the cottage and its inmates.

ELBERON, N. J., Sept. 19. At 10 o'clock P. M. to-night the following cablegram was sent to Minister Lowell by MacVeagh:

The President had another chill this morning of considerable severity, which following so soon after the one of last evening left him very weak. His pulse became more frequent and feebler than at any time since he recovered from the immediate shock of his wound. His general condition was more favorable during the day. His system rallied to some extent, and he passed the afternoon and evening comfortably. At this hour he is resting quietly, and no disturbance is expected during the night. There is no gain whatever in strength, and there is therefore no decrease of anxiety. Signed MACVEAGH.

ELBERON, Sept. 19—11:30 P. M.

Attorney-General MacVeagh has just come to the Elberon Hotel from Franklyn cottage. He says: I sent my dispatch to Lowell at 10 P. M. Shortly before that Bliss had seen the President and found his pulse to be 106, and all the conditions were then promising a quiet night. The Doctor asked the President if he was feeling uncomfortable in any way. The President answered, "not at all," and shortly afterwards fell asleep. Bliss thereupon returned to his room, across the hall from that occupied by the President. Swain and Rockwell remained with the President about fifteen minutes after 10. The President awakened and remarked to Colonel Swain that he was suffering great pain and placed his hand over his heart. Bliss was called and when he entered the room found the President substantially without a pulse and the action of his heart was almost undistinguishable. He said at once that the President was dying and directed that Mrs. Garfield be called. The President remained in a dying condition until 10:30, when he was pronounced dead. He died of some trouble of the heart supposed to be neuralgia, but that, of course is uncertain. They notified General Arthur, and sent dispatches to Secretaries Blaine and Lincoln.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 20, 12:30 A. M. Attorney General MacVeagh has just sent the following to Vice President Arthur: "It becomes our painful duty to inform you of the death of President Garfield, and to advise you of taking the oath of office as President of the United States without delay, if it concurs with your judgment."

We will be very glad if you will come here on the earliest train to-morrow morning.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.

The talk of lynching Guiteau has been revived, and as news from the President grew worse the threats were louder. The people gathered in crowds around the bulletins, and it is not uncommon to hear men say "if the news that the President is dead comes, they are all in favor of taking Guiteau from Jail and hanging him at once." The sentiment finds supporters, but does not seem as yet to find any organized preparation towards putting the threat into execution. The authorities have realized that there may be danger, and have quietly taken their measures.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.

The fire alarm notified all the bell towers in the city at 10:30 to-night of the death of President Garfield, and immediately the slow and solemn tolling of the bells called thousands upon thousands of people out on the streets.

All the masses of humanity made all haste by public and private conveyances and on foot to reach the point where reliable and detailed information could be learned, and in a few moments the streets where bulletins were exhibited were full of people struggling to get a glimpse of the fatal words, which, for full half an hour, were the only news received: "The President is dead!"

Although the blow had been looked for almost daily for over three weeks, the shock seemed none the less dreadful when it fell about the news centres and newspaper windows.

It was a common sight to see strong men expressing the deepest and almost tearful sorrow, while women wept outright, and the most flippant and hardened passed with bowed heads as in the presence of some great domestic or personal trouble. Not a light word was spoken, and for once there was no jesting in the crowds which surged through the streets. The silence was impressive and a peculiarly solemn feature of the night.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20, 12 M.

At this hour New York is as thoroughly awake as at noon. As usual extras are being cried through the streets, and the whole town is evidently awake. Notwithstanding, the news of the death of the Chief Magistrate has been, so to speak, discounted for eight days and nights. There is no doubt that the announcement was received as a thunderbolt from a clear sky. For the past few days men have been employed in the church steeple and fire alarm bell towers to await the decadence, and when the solemn news came at last it found the people a-bed, which fact really added to the solemnity of the occasion, because nobody was prepared for the worst, and could not have possible been. At midnight an extra has been following details: At the bedside holding his poor hand in her own, and watching with anguish unutterable the fast declining sands of life sat the faithful wife during the closing hours of the President's career. Around him were other weeping friends and physicians, lamenting their powerlessness in the presence of death.

He was once more back in Mentor, amid those scenes wherein the dear old homestead with loved ones around him, the mother so proud of her boy, the faithful wife, the beloved children, was blissful dream that robbed death of its terrors and rendered the dying man for moments unconscious of the cruel rending of his once vigorous frame.

NEW YORK, September 20.

Chester A. Arthur, it is reported, was sworn in as President by a Notary

Public shortly after 11 P. M. At this hour, 1 A. M., the streets are full of excited people and the bulletin boards are surrounded by thousands. Word comes from Washington that riot is in being there. Presumably an attack on the jail where Guiteau is confined. Rumors are thick and conflicting as can be imagined.

NEW YORK, September 19.

A Times Long Branch special says: The President died at 10:35 to-night. At the evening bulletin his condition was thought a trifle more favorable. There was feeling of congratulation on all sides that he had escaped another rigor, which had been anxiously feared since the chill of the morning. Dr. Boynton, during the early part of the evening, talked even a little more hopefully, and people about the hotels prepared to retire at the usual hour.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.

A special from Elberon, dated 9:50 reads. President Garfield is dead.

The crowds melted away as rapidly as they came, and by 1 A. M. the streets were perfectly deserted. The sad news was received by the council, and the body adjourned after being summoned by the Mayor to meet to-morrow afternoon and take proper action. One theatre, the academy of music, closed at once on receipt of the news, and others will be closed to-morrow. The Mayor will proclaim a cessation of business on the day of the late President's funeral. Preparations are going forward for draping the Government and City buildings, while many other establishments have already, in anticipation of the fatal termination of the President's prostration, secured mourning in which they will be dressed to-morrow.

MONDAY'S DISPATCHES.

THE PRESIDENT'S PERIL.
Serious Complications from Blood Poisoning—Dr. Bliss Admits that the Situation is Decidedly Critical.

Members of the Cabinet Arriving—Dr. Agnew and Boynton on the Crisis—Death Expected at Any Moment.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.

An unofficial bulletin, at 7:25 A. M., says: The President passed a very comfortable night—far better than was expected—and is now sleeping quietly. 9 A. M.—The President had a rigor at 8:30.

ELBERON, N. J., Sept. 19—9:15 A. M.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN—The condition of the President this morning continues unfavorable. Shortly after the issue of the evening bulletin he had a chill lasting fifteen minutes, the febrile rise following and was continued until 12, midnight, during which time the pulse ranged from 112 to 130. The sweating that followed was quite profuse. The cough, troublesome during the chill, gave him but little annoyance the remainder of the night. This morning, at 8 o'clock, the temperature was 98.8; pulse, 106, and feeble; respiration, 22; and at 8:30 this morning another chill came on, and on account of which the dressing was temporarily postponed. A bulletin will be issued at 12:30 P. M.

Signed: D. W. BLISS,
D. H. AGNEW.

ELBERON, Sept. 19—10:40 A. M.

Dr. Agnew says the situation at this time is decidedly gloomy and could not well be worse. The President has not rallied as usual from the effects of the rigor. Much excitement prevails, and the worst fears are entertained, and justly so.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 19—11:30 A. M.

Dr. Bliss has briefly summed up the situation as decidedly critical. He said there was no doubt that the rigors were results of extended complications in the right lung, and added that they were caused by the exhausted condition of the President, which has been caused by blood poisoning. Boynton expects a rally from the effects of this morning's rigor, but admits that there is cause for the greatest apprehension.

ELBERON, Sept. 19—13 M. The President had another chill at 10:30 A. M. At noon it still continues; pulse 140 and rapidly growing weaker. Death is expected at any moment.

ELBERON, N. J., Sept. 19—12 M.

Sec'y Hunt has just come from the Franklin cottage; he says the President is now sleeping quietly and there is no material change in his condition. Stimulating enemata is being administered.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 19—12:30 P. M.

Members of the Cabinet, excepting Secretaries Blaine and Lincoln, came to Elberon at 11 o'clock, and are now sitting on the piazza of Attorney-General McVeagh's cottage.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 19—2:30 P. M.

Dr. Bliss says the President is more comfortable. A reaction has taken place and his pulse is now 118, temperature about normal, and respiration 20. There is, however, danger of another chill towards evening.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19—1:35 P. M.

An Inter-Ocean's Long Branch special says the President has slept most of the time since the morning chill. There has been no evidences of change for better or worse for several hours.

Bliss Makes a Gloomy Prediction.

ELBERON, Sept. 19—10:15 A. M.

Dr. Boynton says that during the prevalence of rigor the President's pulse went up to 143 beats and was very feeble. At this hour it has decreased to about 140 beats. The patient is extremely weak and there is cause for great alarm. Dr. Bliss is of the opinion that the President may die in one of these rigors, should they continue to be frequent.

OBSERVE THE DAY.

The business men of Reno desiring to observe the national day of grief in proper form, will close their place of business to-day. All who have not been notified are hereby urgently requested to join in this exhibition of respect to the memory of our late President, James A. Garfield.

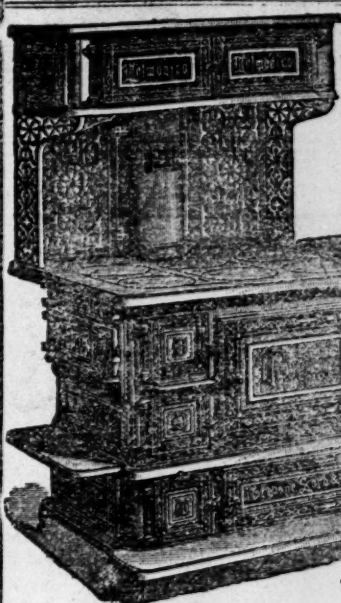

According to the New York Tribune of the 10th, the President seems disposed to take a hand in the inability question. Wednesday he asked to see any member of his Cabinet who wished to consult him, and he did see some of them.

CLERICAL CONVOCATION.

The tendency of the mind, when left to itself, is to warp, to become filled with prejudices. This can only be prevented by the friction of mind with mind. In this way ideas are enlarged, thoughts are furnished and the whole man is broadened. These remarks are suggested by the meeting of two conventions of religious bodies last week: the Convocation of the Episcopal clergy in this place, and the Conference of the Methodist clergy in Carson.

If these conventions are properly conducted they can only be productive of good. Men engaged in the great work of religious instruction meet together from all parts of the State to report progress, to compare notes and to lay plans for the future. These plans can be, and are based upon broader and better foundations when they are the result of general counsels and united action, than when they are the outgrowths of individual minds. Whatever may be the individual opinion of the Christian church, whether it be regarded as a merely human institution, or whether it be looked upon as of Divine origin, the fact still remains that it is a powerful agent in the workings of society. Its influence must certainly be enlarged when its representative men meet together to devise ways and means for the furtherance of the great work of morals. The work of the Episcopal clergy was a purely practical one. Their discussions were all in the one channel of how to do the most good in the best way. Nothing sectarian characterized their essays. This is as it should be. If the church has any mission at all it is to grapple with vice and aid virtue. When it loses sight of this it loses sight of its one great end. The Methodist clergy, in all probability did the same thing. The men who make up these conventions must go home all the better for the gatherings. Ideas must have been obtained, thought must have been quickened, and the whole soul must have been enlarged.

CALIFORNIA STATE FAIR.

An Attractive Programme—Novelty Races For Three-Year-Olds.

On the second day the proceedings will commence with the 2:21 purse, in which are six nominations, followed by the 2:27 class and the Occident stake and the cup for three-year-olds.

On Wednesday there will be a running stake for two-year-olds, with twenty-seven names on the list, followed by a dash of a mile free for all. Then will come a three-year-old stake for fillies, heats of three-quarters of a mile, succeeded by a dash of a mile and three-quarters, free for all, finishing with a trot for the 2:30 class, in which are ten entries.

On Thursday the first race will be a trot for four-year-olds, in which there will be five of the best in the State, followed by a trot for three-year-olds that have never trotted in public, with four on the list, and then a two-year-old contest, in which the redoubtable Eva will meet the pick of the Palo Alto stable and others.

On Friday there will be a running handicap, a mile and a quarter, with six in; then a stake for three-year-olds, mile and repeat, to be followed by a dash of two miles and repeat, free for all, concluding with a pacing race with eight nominations.

With such a speed programme and other attractions that are to be carried out on the most liberal scale, the State Fair of 1881 promises to be the most successful on record.

Methodist Conference.

From the Rev. O. L. Barstow the GAZETTE learns of the following appointments made by the Methodist Conference recently held at Carson: The Rev. W. G. Simpson of East Portland, Oregon, takes the place of Mr. Gray, Virginia City, and Mr. Gray goes to Carson. Rev. DeLaMatry comes to Reno; Mr. McKelvey goes to Winnemucca; W. Carver, Truckee; J. F. Ladd, Austin; Mr. Ewing, Quincy; O. L. Barstow, Indian valley; Mr. James, Battle Mountain; Mr. Warrington, Bodie; F. M. Willis, Independence; W. Nims, Bridgeport.

One Dollar Reward—Lost, Strayed or Stolen.

A man 5ft 11 1/2 inches high, large ears, big nose and mouth, black curly hair, lame in left knee and in many other places, left this office at 11 o'clock Saturday morning headed north with a shotgun over his shoulder dragging a short tailed, liver colored slut by the neck. Any information regarding his whereabouts will be thankfully received (by his creditors) The above reward will be paid to any person or persons returning him to his office. In the mean time local items will be received up to 4 o'clock, and no questions asked.

State Fair.

Everything indicates that the coming State Fair will be the best ever held in this State. The exhibits will be larger than ever before, and the contests in the speed ring will be very interesting. All the best horses on the coast will enter the contest, and visitors can make up their minds that they will be well treated, and may come prepared to have a good time. The attendance from California will be unusually large and the people from the north are all coming.

OREGON DISASTER.

A Boat Upset in the Columbia, and Five Men Drowned—Sad Accident to a Woman and Children—Railroad Building, etc.

PORTLAND, September 17, Track-laying is about to commence on the Umatilla and Pendleton branch of the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company.

A special dispatch this evening from Multnomah Falls, on the Columbia river, sent from Rooster Rock telegraph station, gives the harrowing intelligence of the drowning of five men in the Columbia river. It seems that ten men of Smith and Thompson's employ, engaged in cutting trees and clearing the track of the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company's new line, got into a small boat last night after they quit work, and it is supposed, were making their way with their tools back to the camp for the night. By some means, the boat, being overloaded, swamped, and the men were thrown out, and were at the mercy of the current. Of the ten men only five were saved.

News of a very serious accident on the Santiam river, in Linn county, has just been received. Mrs. J. N. Thomas, a boy, three girls and a baby, were crossing a bridge in a wagon when the horses took fright and backed the rear of the wagon off. The front wheel caught on the edge and remained stationary. Mrs. Thomas, the child and girls were thrown to the ground a distance of twenty-five feet. She escaped with terrible bruising, but the three girls had legs and arms broken, the baby was knocked senseless, and was supposed for a time to be killed; the boy hung on to the wagon and escaped with slight injuries.

A. L. Gray, one of the publishers of the Albany Democrat, who skipped the country a few weeks since, taking about $3,000 with him, since has been heard from. He was seen last week in Umatilla county en route to Salt Lake.

Every Inducement.

The wise man always lays by a dollar for a rainy day, and the economical wife always buys where and when she can save money. For these reasons, people can always be seen patronizing clearance sales, when they know the merchant to be reliable. They want good goods, courteous treatment, fair dealing and low prices. All these desirable attractions can be found at S. Peyser's Mechanics' store, on Virginia street, next door to Charles Knust's. The fall stock at this popular store is melting away like snow before a summer sun. Call in time.

Nasby keeps sewing machine oil and all sorts of useful and ornamental articles. The heat is moderate, at 9, 11, 1 and 3: the thermometer was 64, 69, 71, 73.

H. B. Berdens was run over by the cars at Deming, A. T., Friday, and his left leg was cut off.

The women and children at McMillen, Arizona, are in the Stonewall Jackson tunnel. They have plenty of water and pure air, and are perfectly safe.

About one week ago a scoundrel on the Rio Puerco, in Apache county, A. T., killed two men, a Mr. Blanchard and a young man who was tending bar for him, and escaped.

Two distinct earthquake shocks were felt at 9:40 o'clock at Port Townsend. The vibration seemed to be from northeast to southwest, and the shocks lasted about two seconds each.

At Port Townsend, W. T., Friday morning, while a watchman named Thomas L. Bradshaw, employed at B. D. Miller's charcoal pits at Irondale, was on duty a tree fell on him, fracturing his skull badly.

Ten cattle trains, 206 cars in all, arrived at Omaha Thursday. This is the largest cattle shipment ever made in any one day over the Union Pacific Railroad.

Harry Mordaunt, the escaped convict from the Oregon State Penitentiary, who was arrested in San Francisco some days ago and taken to Oregon on the steamer Columbia by Detective Day of Portland, disappeared in a sudden and remarkable manner while en route to the latter city. Shortly before reaching Astoria, Mordaunt made an excuse to go to his room to get a coat, and having at the time 16-pound shackles on his leg, the detective allowed him to do so. When the officer followed Mordaunt to his room, he found him gone. The vessel was thoroughly searched, but in vain. One of the deck hands says he saw Mordaunt slip over the stern of the steamer and reach the water by a rope and disappear.

MAIL AND FAREWELL!

The end has come, and a Nation puts on the garb of mourning to-day. We mourn for that which is free, liberal and progressive—for American citizenship. We bow with reverence and gratitude before the tomb of America's foremost citizen. We are silent at the death-bed of JAMES ABRAHAM GARFIELD, the man who was of the people, for the people, and by the people.

It now avails nothing if we say that the eyes now dim in death, looked along the National highway to future republican greatness. It matters little if we can say that the great mind which has ceased its action, had for its aim the uplifting and enlargement of the sacred privileges which belong to every American citizen alike. We can add nothing, if we say that the heart, which has now stopped its beating, enshrined a tender love for the starry flag, and every right which it signifies in the free air of heaven.

"This is the end of life."
He has laid the burden down and passed beyond the barrier which separates us from the unseen beyond. With his fame to the historian and his memory with his fellow citizens, we bid him hail and farewell. He who carried a sword to preserve the Union, and has couched in rest an earnest purpose to perpetrate the unity has deserved well of Americans. Hail and farewell!

GONE TO HIS REST.

We have handed to the people the sad news which has ere this winged its way to every portion of the civilized world. The President of fifty million freemen has gone over to the silent majority. Liberty has claimed another martyr, humanity has lost a friend. In common with every American element we feel as though we should voice the heavy grief which surrounds each American freeman to-day, but what can word or deed avail at such a time. We can picture him on the little farm at Mentor, tilling the soil like the sturdy toiler which he was, and happy in the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens. We can follow him into his family circle where purity and goodness bound him to the loved ones of home. We may look back upon all these fair surroundings and imagine for him a quiet life and peaceful end. But the great heart and mind knew no rest from its unselfish labors. They led him out into the world to do the world good. He became a wise statesman, an orator of surpassing power, and an ever ready defender of the faith in liberty and the rights of man. That which Garfield has said, we hear yet, as it echoes from mind to mind throughout this broad land. His life belonged to us, and his thought has become a part of that free air which we love to breathe. We can follow the soldier Garfield, and recall his bravery of eighteen years ago, when he dashed across the field of Chickamauga to join the doughty Thomas.

Finally we can stand by his death bed and recall his heroic struggle for the life which a nation claimed. But this is all. We can love his name and will cherish his loved ones for his sake, but it remains for posterity to properly crown and sanctify the memory of JAMES ABRAHAM GARFIELD.

SCENES FROM THE PRINCIPAL CITIES OF THE EAST ON RECEIPT OF THE NEWS.

President Arthur.
NEW YORK, Sept. 20.

President Arthur took the oath of office at his residence in New York City this morning at 3:15 o'clock. The oath was administered by Judge Brady of the Supreme Court of the State of New York.

The Route to the Grave.
LONG BRANCH, September 20.

Attorney General MacVeagh says the corpse will leave for Washington, where it will lie in state in the rotunda of the Capitol during Thursday. It will leave for Cleveland on Friday, where the funeral will be held on Monday, and the remains interred in Lake View Cemetery, of that city.

At the President's request an autopsy will be held this afternoon.

ELBERON, Sept. 19—11:15 P. M.
The Cabinet has just arrived and gone in a body to Franklyn Cottage. All are here except Blaine and Lincoln. Attorney-General MacVeigh telegraphed them of the President's death. Great excitement prevails here, and further particulars cannot be obtained.

The Guard around Franklyn Cottage has been doubled, and no one is allowed to approach it. The Government has taken possession of the only telegraph wire which is connected at Elberon. It will be almost impossible to get further details to-night, as we are cut off from connection with the cottage and its inmates.

ELBERON, N. J., Sept. 19.
At 10 o'clock P. M. to-night the following cablegram was sent to Minister Lowell by MacVeigh:

The President had another chill this morning of considerable severity, which following so soon after the one of last evening left him very weak. His pulse became more frequent and feebler than at any time since he recovered from the immediate shock of his wound. His general condition was more favorable during the day. His system rallied to some extent, and he passed the afternoon and evening comfortably. At this hour he is resting quietly, and no disturbance is expected during the night. There is no gain whatever in strength, and there is therefore no decrease of anxiety. Signed MACVEIGH.

ELBERON, Sept. 19—11:20 P. M.
Attorney-General MacVeigh has just come to the Elberon Hotel from Franklyn cottage. He says: I sent my dispatch to Lowell at 10 P. M. Shortly before that Bliss had seen the President and found his pulse to be 106, and all the conditions were then promising a quiet night. The Doctor asked the President if he was feeling uncomfortable in any way. The President answered, "not at all," and shortly afterwards fell asleep. Bliss thereupon returned to his room, across the hall from that occupied by the President. Swain and Rockwell remained with the President about fifteen minutes after 10. The President awakened and remarked to Colonel Swain that he was suffering great pain, and placed his hand over his heart. Bliss was called and when he entered the room found the President substantially without a pulse and the action of his heart was almost undistinguishable. He said at once that the President was dying and directed that Mrs. Garfield be called. The President remained in a dying condition until 10:30, when he was pronounced dead. He died of some trouble of the heart, supposed to be neuralgia, but that, of course is uncertain. They notified General Arthur, and sent dispatches to Secretaries Blaine and Lincoln.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 20, 12:30 A. M.
Attorney General MacVeigh has just sent the following to Vice President Arthur: "It becomes our painful duty to inform you of the death of President Garfield, and to advise you of taking the oath of office as President of the United States without delay, if it concurs with your judgment. We will be very glad if you will come here on the earliest train to-morrow morning."

(Signed: S. J. KIRKWOOD Sec'y Int. Wm WINDOM Sec'y T. Wm HUNT Sec'y Navy T. L. JAMES P. M. Gen'l W. MACVEIGH Att'y Gen'l)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.

The talk of lynching Guitteau has been revived, and as news from the President grew worse the threats were louder. The people gathered in crowds around the bulletins, and it is not uncommon to hear men say "if the news that the President is dead comes, they are all in favor of taking Guitteau from Jail and hanging him at once." The sentiment finds supporters, but does not seem as yet to find any organized preparation towards putting the threat into execution. The authorities have realized that there may be danger, and have quietly taken their measures.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.

The fire alarm notified all the bell towers in the city at 10:30 to-night of the death of President Garfield, and immediately the slow and solemn tolling of the bells called thousands upon thousands of people out on the streets. All the masses of humanity made all haste by public and private conveyances and on foot to reach the point where reliable and detailed information could be learned, and in a few moments the streets where bulletins were exhibited were full of people struggling to get a glimpse of the fatal words, which, for full half an hour, were the only news received: "The President is dead!"

Although the blow had been looked for almost daily for over three weeks, the shock seemed none the less dreadful when it fell about the news centers and newspaper windows.

It was a common sight to see strong men expressing the deepest and almost tearful sorrow, while women wept outright, and the most flippant and hardened passed with bowed heads as in the presence of some great domestic or personal trouble. Not a light word was spoken, and for once there was no jesting in the crowds which surged through the streets. The silence was impressive and a peculiarly solemn feature of the night.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20, 12 M.
At this hour New York is as thoroughly awake as at noon. As usual extras are being cried through the streets, and the whole town is evidently awake. Notwithstanding, the news of the death of the Chief Magistrate has been, so to speak, discounted for eight days and nights. There is no doubt that the announcement was received as a thunderbolt from a clear sky. For the past few days we have been employed in the church steeple and fire alarm bell towers to await the decadence, and when the solemn news came at last it found the people abed, which fact really added to the solemnity of the occasion, because nobody was prepared for the worst, and could not have possible been. At midnight an extra has the following details: At the bedside holding his poor hand in her own, and watching with anguish unutterable the fast declining sands of life sat the faithful wife during the closing hours of the President's career. Around him were other weeping friends and physicians, lamenting their powerlessness in the presence of death.

He was once more back in Mentor, amid those scenes wherein the dear old homestead with loved ones around him, the mother so proud of her boy, the faithful wife, the beloved children, was blissful dream that robbed death of its terrors and rendered the dying man for moments unconscious of the cruel rending of his once vigorous frame.

NEW YORK, September 20.

Chester A. Arthur, it is reported, was sworn in as President by a Notary Public shortly after 11 P. M. At this hour, 1 A. M., the streets are full of excited people and the bulletin boards are surrounded by thousands. Word comes from Washington that a riot is in being there. Presumably an attack on the jail where Guitteau is confined. Rumors are thick and conflicting as can be imagined.

NEW YORK, September 19.

A Times Long Branch special says: The President died at 10:35 to-night. At the evening bulletin his condition was thought a trifle more favorable. There was feeling of congratulation on all sides that he had escaped another rigor, which had been anxiously feared since the chill of the morning. Dr. Boynton, during the early part of the evening, talked even a little more hopefully, and people about the hotels prepared to retire at the usual hour.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.

A special from Elberon, dated 9:50 reads. President Garfield is dead. The crowds melted away as rapidly as they came, and by 1 A. M. the streets were perfectly deserted. The sad news was received by the council, and the body adjourned after being summoned by the Mayor to meet to-morrow afternoon and take proper action. One theatre, the academy of music, closed at once on receipt of the news, and others will be closed to-morrow. The Mayor will proclaim a cessation of business on the day of the late President's funeral. Preparations are going forward for draping the Government and City buildings, while many other establishments had already, in anticipation of the fatal termination of the President's prostration, secured mourning in which they will be dressed to-morrow.

TO-MORROW.

The grief of to-day is only valuable in preparing us for to-morrow. Yesterday we were watching by the side of a sufferer for whom every honest man sympathized. To-day we are called upon to mourn for the head of the nation, James Abram Garfield. To-morrow we shall be called upon to uphold and strengthen the Government under a new head. We hope that every American citizen will give wholesome aid and countenance to the new Executive. CHESTER A. ARTHUR is now President of the United States. Every good citizen should help him to be an efficient head of our common country.

Lady Branch Murphy and the Pope.

[From the London World.]

The death of Lord Gainsborough recalls an anecdote of the time of his conversion. The then Lord and Lady Campden, with their eldest child, Lady Blanche (Murphy) at the decisive audience with Pius IX, were moved to tears. Lady Blanche, who had never seen neither father nor mother cry previously, (she was at the time five or six years old) supposed the Pope had been guilty of some exceeding ill treatment to her parents, whereon, with closed infant fists and feet, she took on herself to avenge the imagined grievance. Judge of the horror of her parents at seeing such an irreverent deed committed on the sacred person of the Pope! Pius IX, much embarrassed, between the tears of the elder and the cuffs of the junior neophyte, called a monsignor of the ante chamber to the rescue.

JOTTINGS.

J. J. Quinn is in charge of Sam Welch's Palace Restaurant.

Crowds of people were gathered about GAZETTE bulletin boards at an early hour this morning reading the GAZETTE morning edition.

The passengers on this morning's train bound east and south were furnished with the extra morning edition of the GAZETTE, giving them the first full report of the late President's last hours and death.

What a Gazette Correspondent saw at the California State Fair.

EDITOR GAZETTE: The California State Fair opened in a kind of topsyturvy manner to-day. Everything at the pavilion is being put in order, and from appearances there will be a fine display when it is in readiness. Out at the fair grounds there are many very fine horses of all grades and colors, Mr. Leland Stanford being the largest exhibitor of blooded stock. The carriage makers have many very fine top and open buggies. I only saw six heavy wagons, one of a new style, having the wheels made entirely of iron, which I think is a valuable improvement in this climate. A Massachusetts firm has seven buggies on exhibition. A new field harrow, which can be coupled by adding sections 26 feet wide, and drawn by five or six horses. The mechanics just now are having a little row with those in charge of space allotted them, and are threatening to take their goods back to the shops. I see 17 head of very fine Durham cattle from Col. Younger's ranch; eight Jersey cows from Mr. R. Noell's ranch, Nevada county; six head of Durhams belonging to Mr. J. Merkley, of Eldorado county, and Mr. Hatch has two fine Jersey bulls here. Mr. Peterson has a mammoth cow of 2,100 pounds on exhibition. Mr. George Bement, of Red Wood City has 11 head of Ayrshire cattle. Mr. Robert Beck, of Sacramento county, has 25 head of Jersey cattle and Mr. P. Stanton has 9 head, which is about the sum total of the cattle.

There are over two hundred head of black Berkshire pigs of all sizes from 5 to 900 hundred pounds in weight.

There were very few people on the grounds this morning, but a small crowd gathered there in the afternoon to see the races; five were to come off, and I waited from 1 until 5 p. m., but only saw four of them, as to wait for no known cause, seems to be the order in the trotting and running races. The running races were very good, however, when they did come off. Four horses entered for the first three-quarter-mile dash, viz.: Douglass, Armada, Howard, Jennie B. and James Lick. Douglass won in 1:15. For the second race for 3-year-olds, three-quarter-mile dash, six horses entered: Idler, Anita, Forest King, Duchess of Norfolk, Maria F. and B. C. Bob. Duchess of Norfolk won in 1:15 1/4. The third race for a one and a half mile dash, four horses entered: Winniefield, Fred Collier, Jim Brown and Douglass. Jim Brown won in 2:36 1/4. The fourth race, mile dash, was entered by Maggie Early and Jennie B. The latter won in 1:45.

RENO IN MOURNING.

The Streets Deserted and Business Suspended Out of Respect to Garfield's Memory.

Last evening about 8:15 the bell on the engine house of Keno No. 1 began to toll, and the people knew that the sad news for which they had been prepared, yet unprepared, had come. A dispatch dated 9:50 at Long Branch made the simple announcement: "President Garfield is dead." The bell had hardly commenced tolling when the sidewalks were thronged with the anxious and sorrowing people. Grief cast a shadow over every face, and even the children seemed to sympathize with the heavy sorrow which afflicted their elders. There was talk of some demonstration, but all seemed to think that their sorrow could not be expressed, and soon they sought their homes to think in quiet over the memory of the martyred President. The GAZETTE issued a morning edition containing the sad particulars, and called upon business men to observe the national day of sorrow. They responded with one accord and to-day the business portion of Reno was a blank and the streets were deserted. Portraits of the dead President were displayed in mourning and the houses were festooned with badges indicating the common grief. The flags were all at half mast, and the people derived a lonely pleasure from remembering the goodness and bravery which distinguished James A. Garfield.

District Court adjourned to-day on motion of C. S. Varian, Esq. Judge King made some very appropriate remarks before the adjournment.

THE PISTOL IN WOOD RIVER.

Bellevue, Idaho, Has Its First Fatal Shooting Scrape.

BELLEVUE, Idaho, Sept. 16.

ED. GAZETTE:—Our city was this morning, about 9 o'clock, enlivened by the first shooting affray that has proven mortal on Wood River. High words passed between David Ray and one Perry. Ray had slapped and kicked Perry and pointed a revolver at him. Perry said he was not armed. Ray said: "Go and arm yourself." Perry went and got his shotgun and came back to the opposite side of the street, and seeing Ray in front of Burch's saloon, raised his gun and fired high in order to disburse the bystanders on the sidewalk. He then leveled his gun on Ray and fired, the shot taking effect in the right breast, about two inches below the nipple. He only lived about ten minutes. Both were considered respectable men. Ray was raised about Nelson Point and Onion valley, Plumas county, Cal. Ray fired one shot at Perry with his pistol. Perry is now in custody of the Sheriff. So far we have had a very peaceable town and regret that such an affray should occur.

Fire at Verdi.

On Sunday night as the west bound passenger reached Verdi a pile of pitch wood near the warehouse was found to be on fire. Ball, wood $1,500; timbers, $500; Mr. Stewart, wood $150; N. J. Foxwell, square timbers $250; P. Judkins, wood and posts $300; J. P. Foulkes, square timbers, derrick, etc., $75.

The Famous Opera Singers.

Annie Louise Carey and Clara Louise Kellogg are beyond question the most famous opera singers of modern times. In fact they have been universally acknowledged to be the leaders of their profession, as well as ladies of large experience and particularly good taste. They have probably traveled more extensively than any ladies on the stage, and, as a consequence, have had excellent opportunities of judging of the merits of different countries and their productions. It is certainly a very great credit to California and the balmey semi-tropical climate of the Pacific, to have had them pronounce Slaven's Yosemite Cologne by far the best they have ever used in any country.
